

From: Mohan Murugiah [REDACTED]
Sent: Wednesday, 29 May 2019 11:33 PM
To: dog.standards@dpird.wa.gov.au; Dpird enquiries
Subject: : Dog Standards and Guidelines Consultation

Hello,

I am writing to inform you that I DO NOT AGREE with some of the restrictions and plans to ban dog training "tools", specifically the electronic collar and the prong / pinch collar.

I use both these amazing tools on my dog and I wouldn't have it any other way.

I am happy to show anyone my dog and how happy he is and that these tools, if used as intended , do not cause any pain and / or suffering .

These tools are not easily available to everyone and I think that people should be made to undergo training by a qualified dog trainer on how to properly use these tools. Maybe have a regulation or a licence so that people and dogs that need these tools are allowed to use them.

I also fear that if these properly engineered and manufactured tools are banned or restricted, then what will people come up with ? Nails in collars ? Cattle prods ?

Thank you,
Mohan Murugiah.

Sent from my iPad