

Service Provider Directory – Carbon Farming Advisors

Choosing the Right Service Provider for your Carbon Farming Project

In alignment with the Clean Energy Regulator (CER), DPIRD advises landholders new to the carbon market and Emissions Reduction Fund to seek professional advice regarding the technical and regulatory aspects of a carbon farming project.

A detailed Land Management Strategy (LMS) enables landholders to make informed investment decisions about integrating carbon farming activities into their farming enterprise. An LMS is a requirement for soil and vegetation applications to the ACCU Plus stream of the Carbon Farming and Land Restoration Program (CF-LRP). The LMS can also be used to register soil projects with the Clean Energy Regulator.

Service Provider Qualifications and Experience

Professional Service Providers active in the carbon farming industry offer a range of expertise. The type of provider will depend on the type of carbon farming project being considered. Landholders should undertake their own due diligence by checking the credentials of carbon farming project service providers. To assist landholders in their due diligence, the following qualifications or questions should be considered before contracting a service provider.

Carbon Project Developer

- Is the carbon project developer a signatory to the Australian Carbon Industry Code of Conduct?
- If the carbon project developer is providing financial advice (for example ACCU or derivative price forecasting, trading, investment strategies etc), do they hold the appropriate carbon market category Australian Financial Services Licence (AFSL)?
- Can the Project Developer provide examples of projects they have successfully established with other landholders?
- Do they have access to up-to-date software, mapping capabilities?

The Carbon Market Institute administers the Australian Carbon Industry Code of Conduct. They list all current signatories on their webpage.

The Australian Securities and Investments Commission is responsible for administering the AFSL regime and keeps a searchable professional register of all AFSL holders.

Environmental Consultant

- Is the consultant a member of the Environmental Consultants Association (WA) Inc. (ECA) or the Revegetation Industry Association of WA?

The Environmental Consultants Association (WA) Inc. (ECA) is the lead professional body representing commercial environmental consultants throughout Western Australia and provides a list of 160 registered consultants to search for via their area of expertise. The Revegetation Industry Association of WA (RIAWA) also provides a directory of members.

Natural Resource Management, Land Care and Grower Groups

- Does the NRM, land care or grower group staff member hold suitable qualifications and experience?
- Can they provide examples of other projects they have successfully established in your region?
- Do they have access to up-to-date software, mapping capabilities?

Agribusiness Advisors and Agronomists

- Is the advisor a member of the Australian Association of Agricultural Consultants of WA (AAAC (WA))?
- Does your Agronomist have suitable qualifications and experience?

The AAAC (WA) is a professional association of member consultants and provides a list of consultants with their area of expertise on their website.

Soil Technicians and Laboratories

- Is the soil core technician experienced in collection and handling of samples for organic carbon and bulk density analysis?
- Is the spectrometer technician experienced in the CER requirements for the spectrographic device settings and the sampling process and analysis?
- Does the laboratory have the relevant Australasian Soil and Plant Analysis Council (ASPAC) certification and National Association of Testing Authorities (NATA) accreditation?

The Estimating soil organic carbon sequestration using measurement and models method, requires ASPAC certification for Total Carbon method 6B2 and Total Organic Carbon method 6B3, and NATA accreditation for organic carbon, bulk density and moisture analysis. ASPAC and NATA list laboratory status on their websites.
